After being appointed Captain of Rugby at Cardiff Metropolitan University James was then selected for his first two caps for the England University Squad and played against France in France and against Ireland in Dublin.

He was also selected to play for the Great Britain 7's University squad in the world championships. Teams competed from all over the world. Great Britain were runners-up in the final to Australia losing by just one try in the last few seconds of play.

After being approached by numerous clubs he has recently decided to sign to Cardiff RFC and has played a few times for the first team.

James completes his MSc in February 2017 but has also been supplementing his income with a teaching assistants role he managed to gain at a local school near Cardiff.
